7. (1) Unless otherwise directed by the person in charge of the investigation, the chief officer shall, immediately upon becoming aware that an investigation is being undertaken, ensure, to the extent that is practicable, that all police officers involved in or present at the scene of the serious incident are segregated from each other until after the Serious Incident Response Team or investigating agency has completed interviewing all of the police officers.

(6) Subsection (5) does not apply to a witness officer where the person in charge of the investigation is of the opinion that waiting for an opportunity for the witness officer to consult with legal counsel before an interview would cause an unreasonable delay that may jeopardize the investigation.
