

Council of the Federation Literacy Award

2024
Newfoundland and Labrador
Call for Nominations

INTRODUCTION

Literacy skills are the essential building blocks for the development of a vibrant society and economy. These foundational skills are embedded in activities in the home, school, community and workplace. There is a continuum of development ranging from learning to read through to reading to learn a variety of other skills and perspectives on life. At the end of this continuum is the complex set of skills necessary for daily life, employment, citizenship, and personal advancement and enjoyment in our modern and diverse society.

It is clear that Canada's provinces and territories are repositories of innovative principles, practices and programs that reflect the very highest ideals in literacy best practices, and serve the varying needs of many different types of learners.

The Council of the Federation (established in 2003 by the 13 Premiers in Canada to acknowledge the leadership role that provinces and territories play in revitalizing the Canadian federation) has identified a number of key initiatives of importance to Canadians, one of which is literacy. In order to bring recognition to achievements in literacy in every province and territory, Premiers, in July 2004, agreed to create a Council of the Federation Literacy Award. The award recognizes outstanding achievement, innovative practice and excellence in literacy. Beginning in 2005, 13 Council of the Federation Literacy medallions have been presented annually, one for each province and territory. The Council of the Federation Literacy Award covers the entire spectrum of the field, including family, Indigenous, health, workplace and community literacy and is given to recognize the excellence of educators, volunteers, learners, community organizations (including non-governmental organizations) and businesses in each province and territory.

NEWFOUNDLAND AND LABRADOR AWARD

For 2024, Newfoundland and Labrador nominations for the Council of the Federation Literacy Award are being accepted for the category of Community Organization.

This category is for NL-based organizations that provide or develop programs, services, or projects that promote literacy and/or helps to better the lives of others by improve reading and writing skills and preparing them for post-secondary education and/or employment.

The Newfoundland and Labrador award will be presented in Fall 2024. The winner will receive a Council of the Federation Literacy Award engraved medallion and a certificate signed by the Premier. Nominations are now open, so please take this opportunity to tell us about a community organization who has demonstrated excellence and leadership in the field of adult literacy.

The Council of the Federation will announce the award recipients for each province and territory in a news release in September 2024.

GENERAL ELIGIBILITY
