

Cultural Connections K-12 Arts and Cultural Strategy

In 2005, the Department of Education and then Department of Tourism, Culture and Recreation joined to develop the Provincial Fine Arts and Cultural Strategy for K-12 education in Newfoundland and Labrador: Cultural Connections.

Cultural Connections' aim is to increase the presence of cultural content in the school curriculum and foster links between artists and students in the school environment.

Through this integrated strategy,

- Newfoundland and Labrador history and culture will be affirmed as a key feature of the K-12 curriculum.
- Students in the K-12 system will be encouraged to develop foundational skills in music, theatre, visual arts and creative writing, which may prepare them to aspire to professional training and career opportunities in the fine and performing arts.
- Students will develop a critical awareness of the role of the arts in creating and reflecting heritage.
- Students, and those who witness their expression of the arts, will also come to respect the contributions of individuals and cultural groups to the arts, in local, national, and international contexts, and will recognize the value of the arts as a record of human experience.
- Newfoundlanders and Labradorians, especially the younger population, will grow in their understanding and appreciation of the unique culture in Newfoundland and Labrador.
- The economic status of the province's professional artist and those in tourism and publishing will improve.

CULTURAL CONNECTIONS

In 2005, the Department of Education and then Department of Tourism, Culture and Recreation joined to develop the

Provincial Fine Arts and Cultural Strategy for K-12 Education in Newfoundland and Labrador: Cultural Connections.

Cultural Connections' aim is to increase the presence of cultural content in the school curriculum and foster links between artists and students in the school environment.

The Resource Acquisition Program (RAP), in operation since 2006, is but one program under this strategy. Through RAP, school and/or public libraries are provided copies of published works, in various formats (e.g., print, digital) and mediums (e.g., novels, theatre scripts), that reflect the province's arts and cultural fabric

While also complementing curriculum outcomes that address the arts, heritage and cultural aspects of the province.

Brochures for past resource acquisitions, can be viewed at:

Corner Windows and Cul-de-Sacs: The Remarkable Store of Newfoundland's First Garden Suburb

C.A. Sharpe and A.J. Shawyer

This literary work offers a glimpse into the history of St. John's and its growth and development from the mid-19th to the mid-20th century. A combination of social commentary and write-ups about influential figures, it provides a view into the development of the city's planning and infrastructure influenced by such key events as the Great Fire of 1892, post World Wars, and the changing economies of Newfoundland as it shifted from country to province.

Murder at Lover's Leap

Pat Collins

This story follows retired Sgt. Frank Fallon as he learns of new details regarding a 50 year old investigation. Recalling the case from 1927 when two men were found dead at the bottom of a cliff near Harbour Grace, Fallon once again teams up with Christine Sullivan, the clever investigative reporter and Fallon's recently estranged partner. Set during the time when Harbour Grace was on the cusp of aviation history, Fallon and Sullivan uncover the histories and secrets of those living on the margins of society as well as Harbour Grace's most influential people.

Swept Away

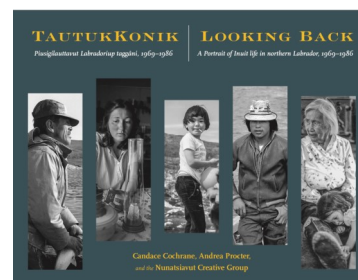

Darrell Duke

During WWII as US forces set up base at Argentia, many families were displaced, and many moved to neighboring communities. In this historical fiction, the daughter of an uprooted family catches the attention of the story's narrator. Just as their young love is blossoming, tragedy strikes on the water. Heartache and guilt possesses the narrator to seek closure, but amidst the turmoil of war, resettlement, loss, and aging, many things in the lives of the people of the area are swept away.

The Yankee Privateer

Derek Yetman

Derek Yetman's intriguing novel offers the modern reader an in-depth portrayal of life aboard the naval vessels deemed essential for protecting the burgeoning way of life at the end of the 19th century. Presented through the adventures of widowed Jonah Squibb, we learn about the exploits of running a vessel, along with intrigue, betrayal, deceit, and family dynamics. Given the ferocity of naval power, it is a glimpse into the tenacity of settlers in the evolving development of the island of Newfoundland.

Trains of Newfoundland

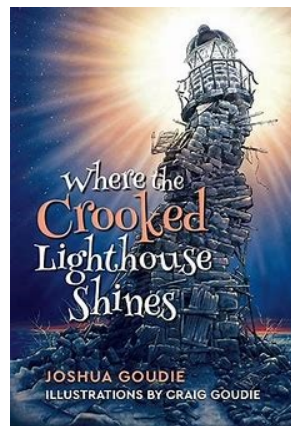

Kenneth E. Pieroway

For over a century until its demise in the 1980s, the narrow gauge railway was a vital link across the province. Many communities were home to railway junctions along its route and were greatly impacted by the vital service it provided for passengers and the economy. A historical visual record of the province's railway, Trains of Newfoundland is a photographic collection unsurpassed in exhibiting the railway and its past as well as the majestic beauty of the province.
