Newfoundland and Labrador Seafood

The ocean waters surrounding Newfoundland and Labrador are abundant with an array of fish species that thrive in our cold, pristine environment. Harvesting and processing is carried out under stringent guidelines set by the federal and provincial governments ensuring the highest standards governing food safety, resource management, sanitation, hygiene and quality control.

Industry and government are continually working to conserve and protect our fishery resources with a focus on conservation and sustainable fishing practices. The province's inshore and offshore Northern shrimp, snow crab, Arctic surf clam, offshore scallop, redfish, Greenland halibut (turbot) and Canadian yellowtail flounder fisheries are certified to the Marine Stewardship Council (MSC) standard. Our farmed blue mussels are certified to the Canadian Organic Aquaculture Standard and Best Aquaculture Practices (BAP) standards. Atlantic Salmon producers are also certified to the BAP standard.

Information in this directory was provided to the Department of Fisheries, Forestry and Agriculture by the seafood companies listed herein. The Department of Fisheries, Forestry and Agriculture has made every effort to ensure accuracy of content, but is not responsible for any errors or omissions.
