

On TV

By Anna Henley

Everybody talks to me
About what they saw last night on TV
But what these people need to know
Is that the people in their favourite show

Aren't real;
They have a design team
Expensive makeup; a limousine
Computer editing, lighting and props
Sets, coordinators, big backdrops

What I'm trying to say
Is don't feel bad
Upset, put down, or at all sad

If you're not like your favourite star
Because stars, they are not on par
With everyone else, they have, you see
An army of people to make them look good on TV
