

Show Business

A silky-smooth tent is where it begins.

The crowds roar of excitement.

Soft curtains pull back to reveal.

A ringmaster starting the show.

Clowns honk their noses and chuckle.

The trapeze flows with elegance.

Lions dive through hoops with ease.

And all pulling their weight.

Balancing, juggling, joke cracking too.

They were a speeding car finishing the performance.

One by one the audience left.

Pouring out like a cup of coffee.

The performers cheered wailing in the night.

Celebrating their performance, a job well done.

Early in the morning they packed their bags.

Now back on the road to repeat it again.
